Q I've been told that some of the ornate carvings are missing from my great grandmother's organ and I'd like it restored to its original state. Can you help me?

A We probably can. We maintain a library of furniture encyclopedias as well as old Sears and Roebuck catalogs, the source of many furniture purchases in the late 1800's and early 1900's. The internet is also a wonderful resource for research. We've researched and rebuilt missing pieces for clocks, organs, chairs, and even built entire replicas of cherished pieces.
